About the conference

Personality Disorder Conference:

Advances in management and treatment of Personality Disorder

This one-day conference is aimed at all professionals interested in maximizing their treatment impact by learning about the current evidence-based best practices for working with people with personality disorder, supporting continuing professional development and ensuring a service user and family / carer focus.

Personality disorders are one of the most misunderstood and misdiagnosed of all the DSM-5/ICD 10 mental disorders and treating these complex disorders can be extraordinarily challenging for clinicians. The difficulty with identification and diagnosis often lies in the fact that people with personality disorders often have other, more easily recognisable mental disorders, such as depression, anxiety, psychotic disorders and substance-abuse disorders. While these are being diagnosed, the personality disorder often goes undiagnosed or unaddressed.

Identifying what works in the treatment of PD is a complex question. Many professionals still consider these disorders as untreatable, however, recent evidence suggests otherwise. The advancements and efficacy of treatments will be looked at in detail at this conference.
